MoDOT Director Notes Accomplishments, Calls Bold Actions Necessary

In a Nov. 16 report to the Joint Committee on Transportation Oversight, MoDOT Director Kevin Keith said the department had accomplished several major goals during the past year, but is only spending about half of what it should on needed projects because of a lack of funds. Annual Report

MoDOT Launches Effort to Reduce Pedestrian Fatalities

Missouri transportation officials are concerned. After just nine months in 2011, the number of pedestrian traffic deaths was nearly equal to those experienced in all of 2010. In fact, during the first quarter of 2011, 21 pedestrian deaths were recorded, compared to nine during the same period in 2010.
