

Requests for Clarifications

Question No.	Question	Response	Response Date
1	Could you please clarify the intent of providing the subcontractor information at this phase of the procurement process?	A list of planned/probable subconsultants is being requested. These are not considered commitments at this stage.	12/12/2019
2	Would a cover (more graphics than text) be acceptable to include?	A front cover and back cover are acceptable and will not be counted toward the maximum page count.	12/12/2019
3	Would a table of contents be acceptable to include?	A table of contents is acceptable and will not be counted toward the maximum page count.	12/12/2019
4	We understand WSP has been selected to assist the City through the procurement process. Will they continue to be involved in the project after the design-build team is selected? If so, can you describe their role? For example, would we coordinate directly with the City or with WSP?	WSP will continue to serve as owner's representative until the project is complete. Once a design-builder is selected, all official correspondence will go through the City's Project Manager. WSP will provide contract oversight support to the City during the delivery phase of the project.	12/12/2019
5	_____ will serve as the lead engineering/design firm on our team. As a WBE firm, please confirm that our services will qualify for the 9% DBE goal for the design portion.	Consultant firms must be listed on the Missouri Regional Certification Committee (MRCC) Directory in order to be counted as participation toward the DBE goal.	12/12/2019

6	In our experience, we have found the role of the quality manager can change as the project moves from design to construction. Would you prefer to see the same individual throughout the process? Would it be acceptable to include two individuals?	If key staff roles are to be split between multiple personnel, the Submitter shall demonstrate that the personnel possess the minimum qualifications required and capacity to meet or exceed the project goals. Changes to Key Staff personnel during the project must be Approved by the City and we would require the substitute to have the same level of education, training, and experience as the original person.	12/12/2019
7	Please clarify who will be responsible for performing testing services.	The Design-Build team will be responsible for material testing. The City and/or consultant representative may perform owner verification testing. More information regarding testing responsibilities will be provided in the RFP.	12/12/2019
8	Please clarify the level/role of public involvement anticipated by the design-build team.	It is anticipated the Design-Build team will provide project updates, new releases, and interaction with the media and property owners during construction. More definition around these responsibilities will be provided in the RFP.	12/12/2019

9	The subs that would be listed as requested in the SOQ would be contingent on their availability in April when the project would actually kick in. These are not major participants so what level of commitment to these subs is needed at the time the SOQ goes in? Obviously to attempt to lock in a subcontractor for work in April would be difficult not knowing schedules/workloads that are so far out.	A list of planned/probable subconsultants is being requested. These are not considered commitments at this stage.	12/12/2019
10	Also, does the org chart count towards the page count (4 max under Submitter Experience)?	No, the organizational chart does not count toward the maximum page count.	12/12/2019
11	Will all major team participants be required to submit the Conflict of Interest Form (Appendix E), or just the Prime Contractor/Team Lead?	One Conflict of Interest Form is required of each submitting team, however, information and signatures provided on the form regarding potential conflicts of interests or lack thereof, shall cover all Major Participants.	12/12/2019
12	Can a front and back cover be included in our proposal, and if so, will it count towards the page limits?	A front cover and back cover are acceptable and will not be counted toward the maximum page count.	12/12/2019
