Helping Employees Restore Credit and Recover From ID Theft

As the leading provider of legal information programs, ComPsych® offers IDResources® identity theft restoration services to victims of this crime.

Victims of identity theft face complex legal, financial, emotional and work-life issues that can overwhelm and distract them from managing their daily lives and work responsibilities. To help these victims and their families, each member of our legal team is specially trained to address all relevant issues related to the situation, legal or otherwise. When a victim of identity theft contacts ComPsych, we provide the following services as part of our integrated solution:

- › Legal and financial professionals to help restore the victim's damaged credit history
- › Counseling to address related emotional issues
- › Financial information from staff CPAs to address credit issues
- › Assistance to manage work-life needs should the victim be required to miss work or other obligations

IDResources professionals guide identity theft victims to help manage:

- › Credit reporting agencies
- › Creditors, banks
- › Federal agencies
- › Federal Trade Commission
- › State, local authorities
