The image contains a drawing of a structural beam and a table of strand instructions. The table lists various strand arrangements and dimensions, indicating the use of different types of strands for precast concrete construction. The drawing includes notes on the positioning and bonding of strands, as well as specific details for the beam's cross-section and dimensions. The text is technical and detailed, focusing on the structural aspects of the beam and the materials used in its construction.