

Brian Treece
Member
Missouri Highways and Transportation Commission

Brian Treece was appointed to the Missouri Highways and Transportation Commission on October 5, 2022, by Governor Michael L. Parson. His term expires March 1, 2027. He is only the second person from Boone County to serve on the commission since it was created in 1921.

Treece was elected mayor of Columbia, Missouri, in 2016 on a platform of public safety and infrastructure. He was re-elected in 2019. His public service includes six years as the elected mayor of Missouri's fourth largest city with a $455 million annual budget, 1,500 employees, and full-service municipal operations including airport, rail, water treatment and distribution, wastewater treatment, energy/renewables generation, transmission and distribution, refuse collection and landfill utilities.

As mayor, Treece worked with local, state, and federal officials to secure $500 million in public infrastructure improvements including the new Interstate 70 Rocheport Bridge and Columbia Regional Airport terminal. He led economic development efforts to create over 1,200 new jobs with a capital investment of over $326 million. He was a leader in the state's pandemic response.

Treece has been a partner in TreecePhillips Public Affairs firm since 2002. He has worked on scores of issues including healthcare, energy & environment, law enforcement, technology, education, and economic development issues with extensive relationships with stakeholders at the local, state, and federal level.

Brian Treece also serves as Vice-President of strategy and development for EquipmentShare.com, a construction technology company founded in Columbia, Missouri. Treece is a frequent lecturer and spokesperson on industry issues, advocacy, and political analysis.

Brian Treece is a graduate of the University of Missouri-Columbia where he studied political science and journalism. He has more than thirty years of experience as a trusted advisor and strategic consultant on communications issues. He and his wife live in Columbia.
