New Boone Bridge Is Open to Traffic

The new eastbound Interstate 64 Daniel Boone Missouri River Bridge is open to traffic! A ribbon cutting ceremony for the new bridge was held last Thursday before crews put the final touches on the bridge and opened it to traffic over the weekend.

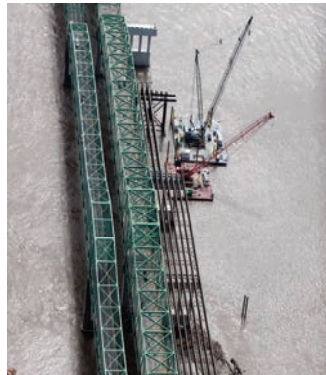

The opening of the new bridge marks a major milestone in the $111 million Boone Bridge project. Construction on the bridge began in January 2013 and its completion allows for the old eastbound bridge to be closed and rehabbed. It will reopen to westbound traffic later this year and the 1930s westbound bridge will be demolished in 2016.

The project also includes work on the Spirit of St. Louis bridge, the connection of the north outer road to the new Chesterfield Airport Road interchange and the continuation of a fourth westbound lane to Route 94.

A shared use path on the upstream side of the new bridge will open later this year connecting the Monarch Levee Trail in St. Louis County to the KATY Trail in St. Charles County. Below are photos of construction or go to www.flickr.com/photos/modot_stl_photos/sets/72157632426802296.
